SENATORS HEED HUGHES AND PUSH HIS BILL ALONG

'Phones Under Service Board Acted On.

ALBANY, April 21 .- The Senate by a posed espe graph companies under the control ot the Public Service Commission and advanced it to third reading. An emergency message was sent by the Governor to facilitate its passage.

The motion to pass the measure precipitated a debate. The action of the Senate in discharging the committee public utilities under the supervision of the commissions stage lines and ferries. He believed that the bill should be put over until the extra session, when the Senate would have ample opportunity to consider it.

Majority Leader Raines cautioned his at 6.30 o'clock. essociates that a serious responsibility rested on their shoulders and he advo-cated the passage of the bill.

COTTON EXCHANGE FIRM SUSPENDS

Longshore & Co. Forced Stop Trading by Long Bear Movement.

mbers of the New York Stock Ex change, was announced this afternoon It was considered as an unimportant one at the Cotton Exchange and did not cause much apprehension.

There was no member of the firm at the office this afternoon. A representalive said that all were out oftown. There has been a long bear movemen on the Cotton Exchange. It has been necessary to call on customers for extra mergins. One customers was expected to send a remitance of $20,000. The firm has offices at the Cotton Exchange Building. There are four members-E. A. Longshore, A. C. Ahrens, W. L. Wright and J. W. Beer. They have an office in New Orleans where the firm oerated before coming o New York. They have been in business here about a year and a half. The firm is an associate member of the Liverpool Cotton Association.

The commercial agencies say that Longshore & Co.'s credit was good and that their rating was between $300 .-000 and $500,000.

This is the second suspension on the Cotton Exchange within the week. Crutch & & Co., members of the Exchange suspended a few days ago, and the next day they asked for a receiver in the Federal Courts.

When They Died, Married Daughter Declared Life Was Not Worth Living.

"I will follow them very soon," said Mrs. Anida Hartman, the pretty wife of James Hartman, a wealthy Brooklyn contractor, of No. 330 Sixty-fourt street, Brooklyn, when her father an mother died within a few weeks of each other last October. "Life is no worth living," she has often asserted since then, "without the presence of my dear parents, and I wish I coul

Mrs. Hartman to-day was found un conscious in a room of her home by her distracted husband dying from dose of carbolic acid. The empty bott which lay at his wife's side and the scarred lips were the mute evidence which alarmed Hartman and cause film hastily to summon an ambulance and have her taken to the Norwegia.

And have her taken to the Norwegia. Hospital.

Dr. Spellman, of the hospital staff, workel energetically over the poisoned woman in an effort to save her life, but the physician said that the deadly drug would undoubtedly cause her death.

The charge of attempted suicide has been made against the dying woman by the police, and she is under surveillance as a prisoner in the hosp tal.
